Keeping up with bills: how to ensure a fair and affordable transition to net-zero

The Government's white paper, Powering our net zero future set out big changes in how we power our cars and heat our homes. The meeting considered how to ensure a fair deal for consumers as part of this long-term transformation. The meeting also provided an opportunity for Parliamentarians, consumer groups, industry and regulators to discuss the effectiveness of existing measures to protect low-income and fuel poor households, including various support schemes and the default tariff price cap.

Energy price crisis briefing

The surge in wholesale gas prices during winter 2021 led to over 30 energy suppliers going out of business. Ahead of an expected record increase to the energy price cap in February, MPs were briefed on the implications of the enduring price crisis for fuel poor households and the targeted financial measures required by Government
